

AG133 : PRINCIPLES OF CROP AND ANIMAL SCIENCE PRODUCTION II

A systems approach to animal and crop production. Focuses on activities which occur in the production cycle during the spring of the year. Topics include forage establishment, corn and soybean selection and establishment, weed control, lambing, and livestock selection and evaluation. Emphasis is given to appropriate stewardship and sustainability of crop, animal, and natural resources.

Credits 4

Type

Laboratory