

AG134 : EXPLORING AGRICULTURE

This course will serve as a foundation to ensure all agriculture students, regardless of concentration, will have a consistent level of proficiency across all agricultural disciplines. Specific areas introduced are the diversity of opportunities within agriculture, the challenges facing the food, agricultural, and natural resource system, agricultural terminology, and the relationships between different areas of agriculture, including agricultural business, agricultural communications, agronomy, and animal science.

Credits 2