

AG246 : PATHWAYS IN ANIMAL SCIENCE

Keeping animals in a strong, healthy condition to be companion animals and/or productive farm animals is the goal of veterinarian medicine. This serves as an introductory course in maintaining animal health in both large and small animals. Course will also provide information regarding the process of working toward gaining admission to a veterinary school, and in preparing for a successful career in the field of Animal Science.

Credits 2